Learn. Grow. Evolve.

Our Nurses Leading the Way

At Vet HQ, one of our core values is Learn. Grow. Evolve. And over December and January, our nursing teams at Double Bay and Darlinghurst have truly embodied this value.

This team completed a comprehensive Nurse Consulting Workshop Series, designed to elevate their consulting skills and enhance the way we support our clients and their pets. This multi week program focused on refining communication, strengthening clinical confidence, and delivering structured, high-quality nurse consultations.

The level of engagement from our teams was outstanding. Tania from Crampton Consulting Group, who facilitated the workshop, was so impressed with our nurses' enthusiasm and participation that she shared a post about Vet HQ on her personal Instagram, describing our team as one of the most engaged groups she has worked with. A true testament to the culture we are building across our clinics.

This training adds another layer of professionalism and commitment to the service we provide. By investing in advanced nurse consulting skills, we continue to raise the standard of care we provide, ensuring our clients feel supported, informed, and confident in every interaction. We are incredibly proud of our nurses for their dedication, willingness to step outside their comfort zones, and commitment to continuous improvement.

Their growth directly impacts the experience of every pet and owner who walks through our doors. Here's to learning, growing, and evolving together.

Author: Kate Fahy: People & Culture Manager